CONDITIONS OF SALE

1. The highest Bidder to be the Buyer, and if any dispute arise between two or more Bidders, the Lot so in dispute shall be immediately put up again and re-sold.

2. The Auctioneer reserves the right to reject any bid which is merely a nominal or fractional advance, and therefore, in his judgment, likely to affect the Sale injuriously.

3. The Purchasers to give their names and addresses, and to pay down a cash deposit, or the whole of the Purchase-money, if required, in default of which the Lot or Lots so purchased to be immediately put up again and re-sold.

4. The Lots to be taken away at the Buyer's Expense and Risk within twenty-four hours from the conclusion of the Sale, and the remainder of the Purchase-money to be absolutely paid, or otherwise settled for to the satisfaction of the Auctioneer, on or before delivery; in default of which the undersigned will not hold themselves responsible if the lots be lost, stolen, damaged, or destroyed, but they will be left at the sole risk of the Purchaser.

5. While the undersigned will not hold themselves responsible for the correctness of the description, genuineness, or authenticity of, or any fault or defect in, any Lot, and make no Warranty whatever, they will, upon receiving previous to date of Sale trustworthy expert opinion in writing that any Painting or other Work of Art is not what it is represented to be, use every effort on their part to furnish proof to the contrary; failing in which, the object or objects in question will be sold subject to the declaration of the aforesaid expert, he being liable to the Owner or Owners thereof, for damage or injury occasioned thereby.

6. To prevent inaccuracy in delivery, and inconvenience in the settlement of the Purchases, no Lot can, on any account, be removed during the Sale.

7. Upon failure to comply with the above conditions, the money deposited in part payment shall be forfeited; all Lots uncleared within one day from conclusion of Sale shall be re-sold by public or private sale, without further notice, and the deficiency (if any) attending such re-sale shall be made good by the defaulter at this Sale, together with all charges attending the same. This Condition is without prejudice to the right of the Auctioneer to enforce the contract made at this Sale, without such re-sale, if he thinks fit.

8. The undersigned are in no manner connected with the business of the cartage or packing and shipping of purchases, and although they will afford to purchasers every facility for employing careful carriers and packers, they will not hold themselves responsible for the acts and charges of the parties engaged for such services.

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

To be a successful collector in any of the wide ranges of the fields of art one must needs be possessed with a natural love of beauty, both in color and form. The really great art collector is almost as rare as the musical genius or the great painter. They all, indeed, belong to one class, since all are intelligent lovers of beauty, either of form, color or sound, far beyond the capacity of the ordinary man.

These statements hold good whether applied to one who is a collector of artistic specimens for his own pleasure and instruction, or to one who, as a matter of business, collects for purposes of sale. That no man can really succeed in business which he does not love is particularly true here. In this fact is found the secret of Mr. Vorce's success in his occupation as an art collector, to which practically his entire life has been devoted. His naturally keen artistic taste has been developed and strengthened by many years of study and experience, combined with an unusually accurate and discriminating eye.

The result of these years of study is seen in the collection, a description of which is given in this catalogue. Rarely are so many beautiful specimens, whose average of excellence is so high, gathered in one collection. This is more noticeable because the difficulties which surround the acquisition of genuine specimens of antique art are increasing year by year, and counterfeits are becoming more abundant and perfect.

Notwithstanding these difficulties, it is believed that few collections of ancient Chinese porcelains, containing so many examples of genuine character, of a quality so high, have ever been offered to the public at unrestricted sale.

Remarks made in connection with ancient Chinese porcelains also hold good when applied to the specimens of antique Chinese cloisonné. Experienced collectors when examining such articles, the product of the skill of men long years deceased, expect to find them liberally repaired and improved in order to hide the ravages of time. In these cloisonnés there is an entire absence of any such attempt to conceal defects or mislead buyers. The specimens have been carefully examined with a powerful magnifying glass, and are, in my estimation, what they appear to be, a large number of unusually fine examples of this art, while many of them are absolutely unique. It must be carefully borne in mind that fine specimens of old Chinese enamel are more rare and are obtainable with greater difficulty to-day than specimens of the ancient Chinese porcelains.

Mr. Vorce held firmly to the idea that no specimen could be properly shown unless it was mounted on its proper stand, and a great deal of time was spent by him to accomplish this end.

The failure of Mr. Vorce's health has made his final retirement from business imperative. His physicians, and not his will, have caused this disposition of his collection. The sale is to be entire and complete, a closing-out, not a clearing-out sale. No pieces are withheld, and none have been privately disposed of since the decision to sell all was reached.

A conscientious and painstaking effort has been made to render this catalogue an entirely safe guide to the buyer. The few imitations found have been characterized as such, and no intentional misrepresentation has been made. As far as possible, within narrow limits, interesting descriptions of styles, character and motive of decoration, form and color have been given. In regard to that most important factor, the date of each specimen, the utmost care has been exercised, and the dates in every case represent the conscientious judgment of one who, for many years, has been an eager student of Oriental art, and who has increased his knowledge and fortified his opinions by careful examination and comparison of many thousands of examples, both genuine and spurious, during his long residence in China.

For the convenience of purchasers, a list of the Chinese emperors of the several dynasties during several centuries past, with the period and duration of the reign of each, is given herewith.
